SUMMER/FALL 1994

Remembering Miss Mac

THE JUNE 5, 1994, PASSING OF Muriel McClelland, who was 87, brought an end to a life of enthusiastic devotion to Lasell College. Every student at the College from 1929-1972 knew her well as a teacher of physical education, coach of crew, and dean. As alumnae, they remembered her fondly for her personal interest in each of them and for her joyous, positive view of life.

Often asked to be class adviser to the seniors and honored in several Lamp yearbooks, Miss Mac, as she was known far and wide, was considered "Queen of Lasell."

She was legendary for remembering her former students' names and once was asked to go through yearbooks from 1929-1972 to see how many students she could remember. She said, "I gave them a list of 1,000 girls I would know anywhere, anytime."

As many know, Miss Mac spent most of her retirement years in Draper House on the Lasell campus and looked forward to visits from those who dropped by during Reunion weekend to reminisce. For the last three years, she resided in a local nursing home.

The Lasell community shared a celebration of her life on June 22 as nearly 50 alumnae, family members, friends, staff, trustees, and faculty gathered in the Yamawaki Art & Cultural Center. A service was conducted by Rev. Dr. Ellis B. Johnson of the Auburndale United Parish who commented, "Institutions are only as strong as the people who love them and give themselves to them. If Lasell was indeed Miss Mac's life, there was obviously a sense in which for so many years, Miss Mac was the 'life of Lasell.'"

At River Day, a member of the class of 1972 congratulates Miss Mac on her retirement.

After her retirement, a new brick dormitory was built on Woodland Road and was named for her. In addition, she was awarded a Lasell Medallion in 1979.

Miss Mac touched the lives of thousands of students during her 43-year tenure at Lasell as was documented in an article from a 1972 edition of the Boston Globe: "Her face never jumped out of the sports pages at you. Her fame is of another kind — a gracious, graceful lady who dedicated her life to Lasell ... You hope the breed will never be extinct."

The family has asked that donations in her name be made to Lasell College. Monies collected through the memorial fund will go toward the restoration of the war canoes used annually at River Day. (Note: these special gifts are separate from the Annual Fund.)

(Special thanks to College historian, Dr. Donald Winslow, trustee emeritus, for his help with this article.)

LASELL COMMENCEMENT '94

Former Commissioner of Health & Hospitals Lauds "Human- Service Side of Women"

FORMER BOSTON COMMISSIONER OF HEALTH and Hospitals Judith Kurland urged the 1,700 family members and friends who congregated under the T-shaped tent for Lasell College's 139th graduation ceremony on Sunday, May 15, 1994, to "seek justice and do justice, and speak the truth even when no one wants to hear it." Lasell graduated 176 women that Sunday, with 129 receiving their associate degree and 47 receiving their baccalaureate degree.

Kurland — herself a graduate of a women's college (Mount Holyoke) — was also the recipient of an honorary Doctor of Humane Letters from the four-year college for women. Lasell College President Thomas E.J. de Witt bestowed the degree upon Kurland for her "distinguished service as a public policy planner and her leadership in providing community services for women and children, the uninsured, persons with AIDS, the homeless, and the disenfranchised."

"My 15-year-old daughter recently asked me how I wanted to be remembered when I'm gone," Kurland recounted in her address. "She

Alumnae Directory in the Works

CATCH UP WITH classmates, network with alumnae in your profession, and renew old acquaintances! Participate in the 1995 alumnae directory, developed in response to the many requests we get for class lists and alumnae addresses.

Questionnaires were mailed this summer to all active alumnae for inclusion in the directory, which will contain class, professional, and geographical information on Lasell's 11,000 alumnae. If you did not receive a questionnaire to update and would like to be included in the directory, please contact the Alumnae Office at (617) 243-2141.

This is your only chance to have the most up-to-date information at your fingertips, because the directory is published only every five years. Order your copy early! Directories may be purchased for the low pre-publication price of $35.70 (includes shipping and handling) by calling the Alumnae Directory Publishing Group at 1-800-375-ALUM.

New Trustee and Overseers Appointed

ELISSE ALLINSON SHARE was elected to the Board of Trustees of Lasell College on June 14, 1994. She graduated from Lasell with a degree in Early Childhood Education in 1965 and received her bachelor's degree from Lesley College. An Overseer of Lasell since 1992, Share has also been the alumnae coordinator for the New Jersey/New York area and has helped with the student recruitment effort in New Jersey. She is a Trustee at Barnard Hospital in Paterson, N.J., and past president of the Special Services Home and School Association for Exceptional Children, in Ridgewood. Her daughter, Jennifer Share, received an associate's degree from Lasell in 1994 and is continuing for a bachelor's in Interdisciplinary Studies.

PATRICIA GURA CONROY '55 of Cheshire, Conn., and MARJORIE WESTGATE DORAN '37, of Hanover, N.H., were appointed to the nongoverning Board of Overseers. JUDITH KURLAND, former Commissioner of Health and Hospitals for Boston, was also made an Overseer (see Commencement story, page 1).

Elisse Allinson Share '65 (left) with her daughter, Jennifer, who received her associate's degree this May.

Patricia ("Tish") Gura Conroy '55 (right) was the first nursing student to graduate from Lasell. With her are Lyn Hitzig, director of the newly reopened Nursing program, and Constance Milner, who headed the program for 27 years.

Marjorie ("Marge") Westgate Doran '37 with her husband, Ben.

Beth Rosenthal (left) received her associate's degree in Open Studies and will return for her bachelor's in Early Childhood/Elementary Education. Kristine Bell, former president of student government, was awarded a bachelor's degree in Business Administration to add to her associate in Human Services.

Annual Fund Has Most Successful Year to Date

WE ARE PLEASED TO REPORT THAT the 1993-94 Lasell College Annual Fund had its most successful year to date! The fund raised $351,602 to support ongoing essentials, such as student financial aid, academic programs, and library resources. The College is extremely grateful to the alumnae, friends, and trustees who participated this year.

This year's Annual Fund also had some other notable accomplishments including a 100 percent increase in the number of new donors this year. The Board of Trustees, Corporators, and the Lasell Alumnae Board of Management all had 100 percent participation in the fund.

A very special thank you goes to our Annual Fund Chair, Ruth Turner Crosby '42. She gave 110 percent and it clearly made a difference. Lasell is lucky, indeed, to have such a dedicated alumna volunteer.

The 1994-95 Lasell College Annual Fund has already kicked into gear and runs from July 1, 1994, through June 30, 1995, following the College's fiscal year. This means it is possible to make two gifts during a calendar year and have them be a part of two different fiscal/fund years. We hope all of you will be generous to your alma mater when asked to participate in the Annual Fund this fiscal year. Your gift will ensure a Lasell education that will last a student a lifetime! ♡ asked whether I want to be remembered as 'nice' or 'smart.'" Kurland said she thought about it for awhile and then decided on neither. "To me, smart suggests a lack of compassion, and nice is soft and pleasant but unimportant. I told my daughter I want to be remembered as 'good.' There are 400 synonyms for the word, including kind, honest, competent, able, honest, fair, hard working, and seeking and doing justice," said Kurland. "I don't think we have to choose one over the other."

An outspoken champion of equal access to health care for all, Kurland became the City of Boston's first female Commissioner of the Department of Health and Hospitals when she accepted the position to serve in the administration of former Mayor Raymond Flynn in 1988. She is currently a senior policy advisor at McDermott/O'Neill, consulting to health care organizations throughout the nation in anticipation of a national health care system.

In her commencement address to Lasell graduates, Kurland spoke about the nurturing, supportive, human-service side of women as mothers, wives, partners, and parents. But she warned against allowing the "soft side of women's natures" to be used against them.

"Be careful when they say how nurturing women are; how supportive, how self-sacrificing, and how compassionate we are. Be careful that they don't really mean 'be quiet.' Be careful," she cautioned, "that what they are really saying is that you are so supportive that you don't criticize; that you're so compassionate, you understand all the flaws of society and accept them; and that you are so nurturing that you allow incompetence. Be careful when they overpraise what they call the soft side of your nature, because often it is assumed that if you have a soft heart you must have a soft head."

Kurland talked about compassion, nurturing, selflessness, and truth as cornerstones of women's ways of being, and how women have used those sensibilities to make a significant impact on society. Kurland spoke of how Mother's Day was originally organized by Julia Ward Howe as an annual mother's day for peace "to change the world and make it better for our children." Similarly, Florence Nightingale, who is remembered as the compassionate caretaker on the battle field of the Crimean War, performed her most significant service as a catalyst for the reorganization of the British medical system and for professionalizing nursing.

"I believe in the power of women to make positive change in the world," said Kurland, who suggested that those attributes usually considered "female" ought to help shape the health care debate.

"Compassion and nurturing should be a part of the plan," she says. "We as a nation must not exclude anyone from health care coverage, regardless of age, color, or behavior. We must also make health care fair, providing the same level of good service to all. We must be unselfish, even if that means that those who have too much must give up a little. And finally, there must be truth. Some $880 billion is being spent on health care today and fully one-third of that is wasted because people make money from the waste while 37 million Americans are uninsured. If we are willing to be unselfish as a nation, there will be more than enough to go around," she said. ♡

What Is "I.R.D." and Why Should You Care?

DON AND CHARLOTTE WINSLOW'S GIFT to Lasell highlights a bit of crucial estate planning that is often overlooked. In this case, what you don't know may not hurt you, but it could provide a nasty surprise to your children and grandchildren.

Most of us have tax-sheltered retirement accounts because we know that it is an astute and tax-wise way to save money for the future. Over time, very large sums are often accrued in these accounts.

But what happens to that money should you die before you have used all the funds in the account? Many people assume that money from a 401(k), individual retirement account or other tax-sheltered plan is simply added to their estate and divided up among their heirs along with their other assets. Not true.

Don't forget that the money has been piling up in your account tax-deferred, not tax-free. According to Uncle Sam, if you don't pay the taxes due on your retirement account, then someone else will have to pay: your heirs. In other words, retirement accounts are subject not only to estate taxes, but also to ordinary income taxes. Excise taxes are also charged in some states.

Retirement accounts and certain other items such as accrued interest on U.S. Savings Bonds and other bonds are known in the tax code as "income in respect of a decedent" or IRD. Without proper planning, IRD can turn around and bite your loved ones. After paying income, estate and excise taxes, some heirs have been left with nothing from what originally appeared to be a significant inheritance.

There is a solution to this dilemma: leave IRD items to charity and give other items, such as stocks and real estate, to family members. As a nonprofit charitable organization, Lasell College is tax-exempt and will not owe any income taxes when it receives IRD items.

In addition, by giving IRD assets like an individual retirement account to Lasell, your estate qualifies for a charitable estate tax deduction — further easing the tax burden on your heirs.

There are several ways in which you can direct your hard-earned (but tax-deferred) money to Lasell rather than to the government. You can simply designate Lasell as the beneficiary of whatever remains in your retirement account, thereby making a generous and tax-wise bequest to the College. Or you could follow the Winslows' example by withdrawing a portion of your IRA or other qualified plan and using the bulk of your withdrawal to fund a life-income plan at Lasell.

Of course, you should talk to your own qualified advisors to see if either of these possibilities suit your special circumstances. Additional information is also available without obligation through Lasell College's Office of Gift Planning. ### Champions of Lasell History Donald and Charlotte Winslow Give to the Future

By Katharine Urner '83, Director of Gift Planning

IN MAY 1994, DONALD AND CHARLOTTE WINSLOW MADE A GENEROUS gift to Lasell for its general endowment. They established a gift annuity at Lasell, which will pay stable, guaranteed income to both of them for their lifetimes and strengthen the College in the future.

For alumnae and friends of the College, the Winslow name is synonymous with Lasell. In 1911, Donald Winslow was born in Karandon House on the Lasell campus. At that time, Don's father, Dr. Guy M. Winslow, presided over the College as president and provided much of the foundation for the current excellence at Lasell.

Like his father, Donald went to Tufts University, where he earned a bachelor's and master's degree in English. He received his doctoral degree in English from Boston University, where he taught until his retirement in the late 1970s. It was at B.U. in 1941 that Donald first met his future wife, Charlotte Lindgren, when she appeared as a student in his Freshman English class.

Sitting in their sunny Auburndale living room today, Charlotte notes that they didn't "go together" until 25 years later. Meanwhile, Charlotte was busy earning her undergraduate, master's and doctoral degrees — also in English — from B.U. and later teaching at Emerson College.

They were married in Oxford, England, in 1978 and moved to their present home on the edge of the Lasell campus in 1981.

Perhaps because of proximity (or maybe Lasell runs in the Winslow blood), Don soon became interested in writing a history of Lasell. Seeking historical documentation, he and his sister, Priscilla Winslow '35, scoured attics and cellars all over campus and deposited their "finds" in a room on the top floor of the library. Thus, the Lasell Archives was born.

Today, Donald and Charlotte are key annual supporters of the archives and have a hand in many other areas of the Library, including maintaining the display cases. In addition, they serve as unofficial (but gratefully acknowledged) watchdogs over the priceless treasures that make up Lasell's rich history. Before a building is renovated or a storeroom is purged, it must first pass careful Winslow scrutiny.

Yet they wanted to do more for Lasell. Charlotte explains, "We wanted to do something tangible for Lasell. By establishing a Lasell Gift Annuity, we could make a gift that produces income for us at a rate higher (6.7% annual payout) than most other safe investments, and we also get a tax write-off."

She adds, "Because I just turned 70 1/2, I was required by law to start taking money out of my supplemental retirement account. But if I took the money out, I would have to pay income taxes on it since it was a tax-deferred investment. By taking a partial, lump-sum distribution and putting it in a gift annuity, I still receive the income stream, and my taxes are significantly reduced by the charitable income tax deduction I receive for the gift."

As Don says, "This was a time when financial changes had to be made. A Lasell gift annuity was financially advantageous to us."

Charlotte nods in agreement, "I'm really very committed to this kind of a plan. Now, with nursing home costs and all, the only way you feel comfortable making a significant gift is if you get some return from it — unless you're very wealthy."

Why a gift to the general endowment instead of the Library? Don replies, "I think general gifts are best. You have to trust the administration to know what is the best use of the money. If you're naming a building, that's different. But for gifts that have to be combined with others in the future, I think general gifts are better."

"Besides," Charlotte notes, "with the new 'information super highways', who even knows if there will be libraries as we know them down the road."

Whether Don and Charlotte's gift is ultimately used for scholarships, faculty enrichment or books on computer, the Winslows know that they have made a very meaningful difference at Lasell. In 1987, former Lasell president Peter Mitchell described the just completed Lasell: a History of the First Junior College for Women by Trustee Emeritus Donald J. Winslow as "a labor of love." Surely, Don and Charlotte Winslow's generous gift to the College's endowment is yet another indication of their abiding affection for Lasell: past, present, and future. ■

DEDICATIONS HONOR TWO TRUSTEE MEMBERS OF HERITAGE SOCIETY

Lynn Blodgett Williamson '46 with her husband, Al Williamson (a Lasell Overseer), and her brother, Ed Blodgett, at the naming of Blodgett Green.

Flagpole Green Named for Honorary Chair

JUNE 14 IS KNOWN AS FLAG DAY; THIS YEAR that date also marked the naming of the green where the flags fly over Lasell, next to Winslow and Carpenter halls. It will now be known as Blodgett Green, in honor of Lynn Blodgett Williamson '46, who has long "waved the flag" for Lasell.

A trustee of the College since 1988 and a longtime member of the alumnae association's Board of Management, she was the first to establish a gift annuity at Lasell. A charter member of the Heritage Society, she is also honorary chair of this growing group of alumnae and friends who are helping to build Lasell's future by including the College in their gift and estate plans. ❧

LASELL COLLEGE HERITAGE SOCIETY FLOURISHES

AS ALUMNAE AND FRIENDS LEARN about the benefits of gift planning at Lasell College, many are choosing to provide special support for Lasell's future by establishing a life-income gift plan at the College or by naming Lasell in their estate plans. It is our pleasure to welcome these generous individuals into the Lasell College Heritage Society, which was created to honor those individuals who champion the next generation of young women at Lasell.

Lasell College is pleased to welcome the following new members of the Heritage Society, as of June 1994:

Calvin R. Carver
Carolyn Hill Hart '44
Marion Camandona Holden '38
Evelyn Douglass Hooper '28
Estelle L. Jenney '25
Hildegard (Bili) Baxter Perkins '36
Jane Maynard Robbins '44
Sheila A. Gordon Stein '60
Donald and Charlotte Winslow
Priscilla Winslow '35

For more information on the Heritage Society, please contact the Lasell Office of Gift Planning at (617) 243-2166. ❧

Photography Classroom Gets a Name

IN RECOGNITION OF THE GIFT OF TRUSTEE Arthur P. Menard, the photography classroom in the Yamawaki Art and Cultural Center was dedicated to his wife, Ellen Menard, on June 16.

Arthur Menard was co-chair of the Leadership Campaign in 1991-93 which raised $1 million from trustees and a core group of Lasell alumnae and friends in support of the four-year programs. As part of this effort, he championed the beginning of a planned giving program at Lasell and was the first to establish a deferred gift annuity (so called because the annuity payments are deferred to a future date, often around retirement).

A partner in the Boston law firm of Cuddy Bixby, he is also an avid amateur photographer who develops his own black and white prints — hence the choice of the photography classroom. Ellen T. Menard is the vice president of human resources at Newton-Wellesley Hospital and a member of Lasell's Board of Overseers. ❧

Alumnae to Visit Country Inns & Gardens of England

THE ENGLISH GARDEN IS LIKE NO OTHER IN THE WORLD, with carpets of blooming flowers beneath towering trees. The country inns with blackened beams and secret staircases offer only the best in English hospitality. So we've combined them both to offer Lasell alumnae and friends

"The Country Inns & Gardens of England" tour, June 22-July 5, 1995.

The tour will be led by Lasell alumna Patricia Perry Polidor '64, president and founder of Strictly Britain, Ltd, a travel company specializing in small group tours to Great Britain. This unique tour will allow alumnae and friends to visit some of the country's most beautiful gardens, castles, and palaces. With Polidor and an English guide, we'll explore sites like Blenheim Palace, birthplace of Sir Winston Churchill, and elegant Waddesdon Manor, built for Baron Ferdinand de Rothschild. We'll wander the gardens at Hidcote Manor, Mottisfont Abbey, and Stourhead; visit Oxford, the Cotswolds, and Brighton; and marvel at the beauty of Salisbury Cathedral, Stonehenge, and Hever Castle.

Nights will be spent in sleepy little villages and in cities such as Bath, Winchester, and London. The group will attend a West End theater performance in London and spend a day at the Hampton Court Palace Flower Show, which is rapidly becoming the flower show in England.

Group size is restricted, so don't be disappointed. To receive complete tour information, please fill out the form below. ❧

Patricia Perry Polidor '64, president of Strictly Britain, will serve as tour guide.

Alumnae Association Grants 13 Scholarships

THE SUCCESS OF LAST year's raffle allowed for an increase in the scholarship fund for 1994-95 recipients. More than 35 qualified students applied for the coveted alumnae association scholarships.

The 13 recipients demonstrated their abilities as scholars, with a grade point average of at least 3.0, and have been active within the Lasell community.

Receiving awards, each listed with the year of her baccalaureate graduation, were:

Lisa Best '95, an early childhood education/daycare leadership major from Dalton, Massachusetts;

Karla Bourgault '96, a hotel and travel/tourism administration major from Morrisville, Vermont;

Kerry Brody '95, a fashion and retail merchandising major from Thomaston, Connecticut;

Euryka Faber '95, a fashion and retail merchandising major from Bloomfield, Connecticut;

Mai Gee Fung '96, a human services major from New York, New York;

Vielkis Gonzalez '95, a human services major from Dorchester, Massachusetts;

Kimberly Kunsaitis '96, an early childhood education major from Webster, Massachusetts;

Jennifer LaClair '97, a hotel and travel/tourism administration major from Boothbay Harbor, Maine;

Shannon Muller '95, a business administration major from Troy, New York;

Julia Torres '96, an early childhood education major from Watertown, Massachusetts;

Dazlee Vega '97, a hotel and travel/tourism administration major from Hartford, Connecticut;

Lisa Wallat '96, an early childhood education major from Lancaster, Massachusetts;

Erin Whyte '96, an early childhood education major from Nashua, New Hampshire. ♣

Raffle Proceeds Top Last Year's

"NOT YOUR ORDINARY RAFFLE," SPONSORED FOR THE SECOND YEAR BY THE COLLEGE'S ALUMNAE association, raised $9,000 for scholarships — exceeding last year's total by almost $2,000.

The alumnae association is pleased by the success of the raffle, particularly since the proceeds directly benefit Lasell students. The growth in participation in this year's raffle will allow Lasell Alumnae Inc. to award larger grants to 1995-96 recipients.

Nearly 40 prizes were awarded during the drawing, which was held Reunion weekend. The alumnae association congratulates and thanks alumnae and friends who won and donated the following prizes in the raffle.

ALUMNAE COLLEGE UPDATE

Participants at Alumnae College workshop.

Managing Your Many Roles and Taking Care of Yourself, Too

By Marcia Hostetter, B.S., M.S.

Jennifer Quimby '94, right, and Marcia Hostetter, former associate professor in psychology, led "Managing Your Many Roles," an Alumnae College workshop.

WOMEN HAVE JUGGLED A number of roles including wife, mother, "nurse," home manager, daughter, and sister — and sometimes one of those balls falls from mid-air. "Managing Your Many Roles," an Alumnae College workshop offered this past spring, was designed for women interested in learning how to balance all of their roles by teaching effective life management skills and showing women how to take better personal care of themselves.

Technological conveniences abound — car phones, fax machines, and fast food — but these advances, which are designed to make life easier, often require us to do more instead of contributing to a better quality of life. Also, as people live longer, the role of "daughter" has taken on added significance as middle-aged and older women find themselves caring for their aging parents as well as their immediate families.

The goal of the interactive workshop, which I conducted with human services senior Jennifer Quimby '94, was to teach women to enjoy and savor the lives we have "composed." Through facilitated activities and small group discussions, participants identified their many roles, shared with each other how they currently manage those roles, and defined ways in which to incorporate positive changes in their lives.

Women may be able to make difficult decisions in high-powered jobs and restore peace among squabbling children, but they feel the need to be given permission to take care of themselves! In fact, taking time for ourselves has often been at the bottom of the priority list for women, when, in fact, it should be at the top. You minimize your good to others if you do not take care of yourself first.

For example, when the flight attendant is giving instructions about the oxygen masks that will drop down in case of pressure changes in an aircraft cabin, she instructs those who are traveling with young children to put on their own mask first, before assisting the child. It makes sense! If one is gasping for breath, how able and clear-thinking will one be in helping a child?

That this has to be told to passengers indicates that it does not seem natural to mothers to care first for their own needs. Most women make sure everyone else is taken care of before they take care of themselves. In reality, self-nurturing behavior is an important and positive trait that brings long-term benefits — not only for women who take time out for themselves, but also for those people who share their lives personally and professionally. ♡

Winter-weary Boston area alumnae were treated to an early spring at the New England Flower Show in March. Pictured are Robin Tavekelian '82, Jeanne Johnsen '72, and Catherine Hunter Gould, director of annual giving.

Hawaii alums Helen Duncan Deveraux '26 and Harriet Markham Wedeman '48 enjoyed an April visit with the President.

Among the attendees at the April meeting at the La Jolla Marriott in Southern California were Sheila Gordon Stein '60, Eugenia Cooney Glow '45, Kathryn Lyon Reddick '70, and Janet Bolster Peterson '52.

Hostess Lynn Kiefer Holt '61, left, offered her lovely Piedmont, California, home for a spring meeting of Northern California alumnae. Also pictured are Frances Lee Osborne '48 and Priscilla Broad Weston '56.

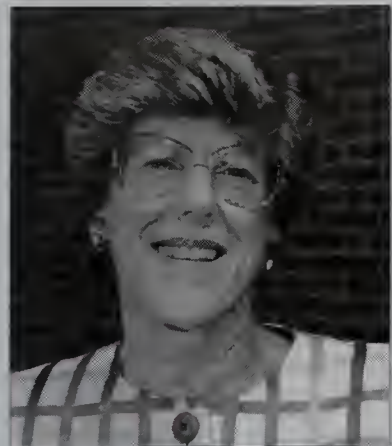

Members of the Cape Cod alumnae group traveled to campus this spring to see first-hand all of the accomplishments they had heard about at previous meetings. They paused outside of the Yamawaki Art & Cultural Center in front of the Crow's Nest.

Alumnae Association Awards Two Medallions

THE LASELL MEDALLION WAS INTRODUCED IN JUNE 1968, WHEN LASELL'S FOURTH president, Dr. Vincent DeBaun, announced the establishment of the award, struck to honor outstanding members of the College community.

After reviewing nominations for the 1994 Medallion, the alumnae association was pleased to honor two individuals who have shown dedication and commitment to Lasell — alumna Nancy Curtis Grellier '49 and former Professor of English George Lane. Excerpts from the citations read at Reunion follow.

Nancy Curtis Grellier '49.

NANCY CURTIS GRELLIER '49

An active member of Alumnae Association's Board of Management since 1979, Nancy Grellier served as its president from 1990-92. She has been a member of the College's Board of Trustees since 1990.

Nancy's education at Lasell has fostered her success in the world of business, where she started WANT AD publications with her husband, Bill, in 1957. Founded as a home-based business in Sudbury — literally in a shoe box in the china closet — the company, of which Nancy is president and CEO, now employs 75 people, publishes two classified magazines weekly, and has some 70 independent distributors. Selling everything from automobiles to wigs, the WANT AD has, over the years, listed and sold a full-size locomotive, a stuffed gorilla, and a full set of teeth.

Nancy has balanced the roles of entrepreneur and working mother, raising four children. When they were young, Nancy was a Brownie and Girl Scout leader. She has served her local community as well, as president of the Thursday Garden Club of Sudbury and on many committees of her Congregational Church. Currently, Nancy is a member of the Sudbury Chamber of Commerce and a trustee of the Madaket Conservation Land Trust in Nantucket.

Medallion committee chairperson Barbara Cole French '61 greeted recipient George Lane, former professor of English, and guest Dr. Richard Packard, acting president 1959-60.

GEORGE LANE

Professor of English, Emeritus
George Lane began his long career at Lasell in 1960 as an instructor of English and was named a full professor in 1975. Although most remember him for his Freshman English course, George also taught popular seminars in Dickens, Thackeray, and Orwell. In the 1960s and 1970s, his dedication to students outside the classroom reached far and wide: as faculty advisor to the Lasell News and the Quill, and as mentor to the Concert and Lecture Series, the Current Events Club, and the Workshop Players drama group.

In addition, he was chairman of the Department of English from 1971-1980 and, in the early 1980s, served as co-chairman of the faculty. Up until his retirement last year, George ably served as acting and assistant organist, and often worked as College archivist.

"His success as a teacher of English rested upon his love of books and his deep immersion in literature and history," according to Dr. Richard Packard, acting Lasell president, 1959-60. "This gave him a realistic grasp of the highs and lows of human experience which he was able to suggest to those who took his courses."

George fondly remembers his involvement with the Japanese exchange programs established with our two sister schools in Japan. He remained busy outside Lasell as well. For a time, he was a stringer for The Economist, covering local political matters. From the late 1960s through the 1980s, he was a book reviewer for the Quincy Patriot Ledger. Seasonally, on Martha's Vineyard, George did local general reporting for the New Bedford Standard Times and the Cape Cod Times. ♡

CALL FOR NOMINATIONS

EACH YEAR A COMMITTEE APPOINTED BY THE ALUMNAE ASSOCIATION'S BOARD OF Management selects individuals to receive the Lasell Medallion. The bronze award may be made to "any member of the Lasell family who, by virtue of distinguished service to the College or society at large, has brought added honor to the name Lasell."

Nominations for the 1995 award, which will be presented at Reunion, should be sent by March 1, 1995, to:

Exciting Exhibits Fill Yamawaki Art and Cultural Center

THE MONTHS OF SPRING WERE BUSY ONES FOR THE YAMAWAKI Art and Cultural Center, which hosted three separate art exhibits in its handsome, light-filled gallery.

In March, Sally Lee, daughter of alumna Jean Sargent Lee '49, held an exhibit of her colorful oil paintings. On April 15 through May 1, the focus was on "Visions of 8," an exhibit of eight Asian-American artists whose mixed media included distinctive embroidery and rice paper works, a video of a dance performance, and traditional canvas paintings.

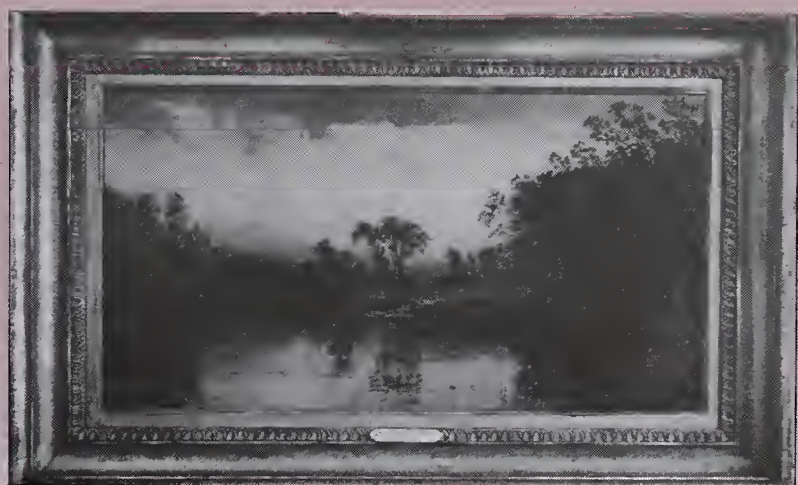

Opening during Reunion weekend in June was "A Decade of Prints," a retrospective of the works of printmaker Jacquie Saunders.

Featured were her collagraphs, drypoint, and monotypes. Saunders was a member of the Lasell College faculty from 1946 to 1986, and the chair of the department of Art and Music. "My work has evolved through varied stages over its course," says Saunders. "In the words of Joseph Campbell, I shall continue to follow my bliss." ♡

GIFT OF PAINTING ADDS TO LASELL ART COLLECTION

"Greenwood Lake," by Jasper Francis Cropsey (1885, Hudson River school) was a gift to the College from Joan Weiler Arnow '49, in honor of the 45th reunion of her class at Lasell.

Looking Back at Reunion '94

THE SUN WAS SHINING AND THE SMILES were bright during the June 3-5 Reunion weekend, which began Friday evening with the traditional Lasell Night at Pops and concluded Sunday morning with a full Farewell Breakfast. In between, there was lots of laughter and non-stop reminiscing.

After the popular van tours of campus — which for many was the first chance to see old haunts and new additions on campus — the nearly 250 Reunioners posed for class photos and joined the enthusiastic Parade of Classes led by a three-piece Dixieland jazz band. During the Reunion luncheon attendees heard from Joy Stewart Rice '55, president of the alumnae association, and President Thomas de Witt.

Lasell Medallions were presented to trustee Nancy Curtis Grellier '49 and George Lane, former professor of English (see story on page 9). The afternoon was packed with events including "Liking the Woman You've Become," an Alumnae College workshop led by faculty member Dr. Paula Panchuck, and the Jacquie Saunders exhibit of prints at the Yamawaki Art & Cultural Center.

For many, the highlight of the weekend was the anniversary dinner hosted by President de Witt and his wife, Dr. Margaret Ward, for the classes of 1929-44. The classes of 1949-89 celebrated Nostalgia Night, in Winslow Hall, dancing to new and old favorites such as the Lindy, Electric Slide, and the Twist.

As the following photographs show, the Reunioners have new memories of good times spent at Lasell. 🍷

DEDICATIONS ADD TO CELEBRATION AT REUNION

Nancy Lawson Donahue '49 with Richard Bath (right), director of the fashion program, and President de Witt at the dedication of "Donahue's," the on-campus retail management training center.

Nancy Lawson Donahue '49 Honored with Naming of Retail Management Training Center

EVERY RETAIL BUSINESS NEEDS A NAME — PREFERABLY SOMETHING SHORT and catchy. The bookstore in the Edwards Student Center had long been in need of one, and got one at last, on June 4, when President Thomas de Witt officially dedicated the Donahue Retail Management Training Center. Descriptive, yes, but not short and catchy. So, simply "Donahue's" will be the name on the lips of every student seeking anything from textbooks and notebooks to clothing and jewelry.

Members of the class of 1949 gathered in the store after Reunion luncheon to toast their classmate as she was recognized for her generous gift to Lasell's endowment. "Straw," as she is fondly still known by many, was a retail major at Lasell. Appropriately, the all-purpose store that now bears her last name is a "connected learning" site for the training of students in the fashion, retail, and business programs.

As a student, Nancy was president of Bragdon and of the Executive Council. Today, she continues her leadership role at Lasell as a Trustee of the College. She has said, "Once I am committed to a cause, it's natural to want to do more." With Lasell one of her chief causes, she spoke eloquently to her fellow alumnae at the dedication, urging those who can to "join me in supporting our alma mater with the same vigor with which our men support their colleges."

Mother and Daughter Honored with Dedication of Tower Alcove

A HIGHLIGHT OF THE PRESIDENT'S RECEPTION AT THE YAMAWAKI ART and Cultural Center was the dedication of the tower alcove on the second floor of the gallery, in the name of Helen Forsberg Powers '39. The naming came about in recognition of an endowment gift made by Lee P. Carlson, vice-chair of the Board of Trustees, who chose to honor her mother in this special way at Reunion.

A striking feature of the original Carter Hall, now restored, the tower overlooks the Crow's Nest. Called the "wind tower" by President Bragdon in the early days of Lasell, the alcove still has the Latin directionals on the ceiling even though the weathervane has long gone the way of the wind. The Powers Alcove is also the permanent location of the Japanese temple bell that graced the front hall of Bragdon since 1894 and daily rang Lasell students to meals.

During his reception for Reunioners in the Yamawaki Art & Cultural Center, President de Witt got the group's attention by hitting the Japanese Temple Bell, located in the newly dedicated Powers Alcove.

After the Friday night Welcome Supper, Reunioners were treated to Lasell Night at Pops, conducted by John Williams. The program featured music from composers Tchaikovsky, Ravel, and the Fabulous 40s era.

Barbara Small Walsh and Florence MacDonald Howe celebrated their 55th Reunion in style.

Catching up at their 50th Reunion were Joan Mills Barry and Vivian Snow Ohlhorst.

Class of 1949 members Mary Ellen Fiske Brubaker and Nancy Lawson Donahue got reacquainted.

Celia Kinsley Percival and Marjorie Jones Joslyn, from the class of 1934, joined the Parade of Classes with Marjorie Schaller Schoonmaker and Alice Pratt Brown, class of 1929.

Both Norma Dietz Tarlow '44 and her sister Marjorie Dietz Jacobs '39, celebrated class Reunions.

A festive dixieland jazz band headed the Parade of Classes into Valentine Hall.

Carlene Hintlian Newell and Anne Telfer Considine led the class of 1959 in the parade.

Jan Slocum Shipe, Susan Coster Malsin, Vivian Ash Gallagher, and Claire Monahan Knox helped represent the class of 1964 at their 30th Reunion.

Lynn Eaton Feinberg and Betsy DeRosa Wolfe, from the class of 1979, caught up after 15 years.

The enthusiastic classes from the 1970s and 1980s brought up the rear of the parade.

More than 250 alumnae and friends enjoyed the special Reunion luncheon for all classes in Valentine Hall.

During the Saturday afternoon President's reception, alumnae and friends toured the new Yamawaki Art & Cultural Center, which featured an exhibit by former art department faculty member Jacquie Saunders.

50th anniversary reunioners Claire McGreery Simmons, Carolyn Hill Hart, and June Trani Hyssong.

Also celebrating their 50th at the President's home were Martha Clark Corson, Reunion coordinator Jean Campbell, Elaine Curtiss-Dillon, and coordinator Barbara Goodwin Flint.

Marlene Haake Brainard '54, and her husband, Robert, danced so smoothly they could have offered lessons to the group.

The 45th Reunion class was well represented with, standing, Mary Ellen Fiske Brubaker, Joan Phelan, Patricia Lane Harlow, Betty Felker Hancock, and seated Nancy Lawson Donahue, Pauline Donaldson Converse, and Ann Hollett Munro.

President Thomas de Witt and his wife, Dr. Margaret Ward, hosted the anniversary dinner for Reunioners celebrating their 50th Reunion.

Kay Poore Hamel, Nancy Colman Hill and her husband, George, and Norma Pickett Wise, from the class of 1949, caught up at Nostalgia Night in Winslow Hall.

Also chatting during Nostalgia Night were members of the class of 1949, Natalie Hall Campbell, Joyce Brandt Francis, and Mary Gilmore.

After the President's anniversary dinner, Edna Barker Nelson '44, and her husband, Robert, enjoyed a dance at Nostalgia Night.

"EXQUISITE ORIGAMI"

National Tour of Master Origami Artists Previews at Yamawaki

ORIGAMI, THE FINE ART OF FOLDING paper into artful shapes, will be featured at a special exhibit of the work of Master Yoshizawa, known as a national treasure of Japan. The work of Michael LaFosse, who has been inspired by Yoshizawa's work for more than 20 years, will also be exhibited.

The two artists' delicate origami works will be showcased at Lasell College's Yamawaki Art and Cultural Center, Grove Street, in the Newton village of Auburndale, Friday, September 16 through Wednesday, October 5, 1994. Gallery hours are 1 to 5 p.m. on Saturday and Sunday and 2 to 8 p.m. on Thursdays.

The stunning, three-dimensional paper designs of Michael G. LaFosse have been commissioned by New York's Saks Fifth Avenue, UNICEF, and others. Master Yoshizawa, renowned as a creator of innovative origami "with soul," has more than 50,000 works to his credit. The Lasell exhibit will be a preview of a national tour, planned for 1996.

A devoted follower of Yoshizawa, Michael LaFosse demonstrates through his work the wide range of possibilities that are inherent in the folding of a single sheet of paper. While the exhibit is up, LaFosse will be offering a series of master classes at Lasell. For information and viewing appointments please call 617-243-2295.

At Lasell's Fashion Retail Career Fair, Christina Lizotte, Employment Manager at Neiman Marcus, discusses job opportunities with student Deanna Pemberton.

Lasell Career Fairs Attract Key Companies

LASELL'S OFFICE OF Career Services recently hosted two career fairs, one for fashion and retail employers and one for recruiters of physical therapist assistants (PTA).

The gathering of leading fashion retail organizations included Ann Taylor, Color Me Beautiful, Gap Stores, Hit or Miss, Kids Convertibles, KGR Manufacturing Inc., Milton's, Neiman Marcus, and Talbots.

Chester F. Sidell (KGR Manufacturing), spoke on the topic of "Manufacturing in the '90s." His company was the 1992 recipient of the Nordstrom "Partner in Excellence Award." His clothing is carried by Talbots, Nordstrom, Dillards, May Company, Joseph A. Banks, and Jacobson stores, among others.

The PTA job fair attracted representatives from the region's foremost health care institutions, including Massachusetts General Hospital, Beth Israel, and Children's Hospital.

Steve Kiley, Nova Care, talks about careers in allied health with Lasell student, Kerry Eddy.

SINGLE MOMS LEARN TO BREAK CYCLE OF POVERTY

Lasell Expands Its PACT for Women and Children

FIVE YEARS AGO, LASELL COLLEGE LAUNCHED a small, pioneering education program that targeted single welfare mothers and their infants or toddlers.

Called PACT, or Parent and Child Together, the program was designed to provide homeless single young mothers with an opportunity to break the cycle of poverty through education.

PACT is funded in part by the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD), which gave Lasell College a grant of $250,000 over five years to supply housing for four families. Lasell raised additional funds from private donors, including the Davis Educational Foundation and Ruth Rawlings Mott '21, and created an opportunity for a group of four disadvantaged women to come to college and have their children cared for in the institution's day care center.

Today, one degree-holding PACT participant is already out in the workplace, earning a good income from her newfound rung on the professional ladder at the human services organization where she successfully completed her practicum. Two others, Donna Gentles and Cynthia Diaz, assumed their rightful places among associate degree graduates at Lasell's May 15th commencement. For each of them, PACT has been their pathway out of welfare and onto a career track. For their young children, the experience has provided a stable and nurturing environment that should serve them well in the future.

For Gentles and Diaz, the PACT experience has demonstrated the power of education and the access it provides. Their eagerness to continue their education for a bachelor's degree led them to work with Lasell administrators to find a way in which they could continue their studies at Lasell and earn a baccalaureate degree in their chosen career fields.

"PACT provides us with a wonderful opportunity to go to school, get an education, and ensure the day care of our children," says Donna Gentles, whose three-year-old son, Anthony, has attended day care on campus as part of the PACT package. "I came and fell in love with Lasell. There is a sense of community here. We work together in a good way. And, there is this program, which is a first among schools that I know of."

With her sights now firmly set on a bachelor's degree in Business Administration/Accounting, Gentles is now enrolled for the fall semester as a junior. "I decided to go for the degree and the

MESSAGE FROM THE PRESIDENT

Dream of Educational Retirement Community Moves Closer to Reality

AS YOU READ THE NEWS CONTAINED IN THESE PAGES, I HOPE WE HAVE CAPTURED FOR you a sense of the excitement and anticipation on campus as we move closer to our goal of becoming New England's leading professional college for women.

I want to share with you recent progress on our plans to develop the nation's first educational retirement community. Over the past five years, I have often written and spoken about this project, but usually in muted tones, given the many legal, regulatory, and financial hurdles confronting Lasell. Lasell's visionary board of trustees stayed the course and supported an administration which saw this effort as a unique opportunity for national visibility and enrollment growth, as well as improved financial security through a dramatic increase in our endowment.

No project better captures the essence of the rejuvenated Lasell College, nor offers greater opportunities for the future, than Lasell Village.

Patience and perseverance have been rewarded. All but the marketing and financing hurdles have been cleared! In June, the Massachusetts Appeals Court, in a strongly worded ruling, reaffirmed the Land Court decision of March 1993, which gave Lasell the right to develop a 13-acre parcel of land (joining the campus and known as the Esker) for 200 living units plus a 40-bed skilled nursing home. Simultaneously, the state offices of environmental affairs and public health ruled in the College's favor on issues affecting our ability to obtain the necessary permits to build this retirement "college."

The trustees of Lasell Village, Inc., a wholly owned and controlled subsidiary of Lasell College, are now formulating plans to proceed with marketing the Village, either as sole developer or in partnership with a national firm. After producing schematic designs in conjunction with extensive marketing materials, we will begin to open a priority waiting list as a precursor to formal deposits of 10 percent of the unit purchase price. Only when 70 percent of the 200 units are presold will the trustees authorize construction to begin. Before we reach that stage, we will need to complete all architectural drawings, have selected a major construction company of national reputation, and close on tax-exempt financing projected to be in excess of $50 million.

Although significant challenges remain, I have never been more optimistic about our ability to execute a project tantamount to creating a new college. Since our initial market survey in 1993, we have developed a mailing list of more than 600 interested prospective residents.

The time is right for this project, as more and more Americans educated in the post-war era want to "retire" to an active lifestyle that stimulates both mind and body. Scholars are studying the effects of exercise and mental stimulation on the aging process, and we will add to that exploration through an Institute for Successful Aging. In addition to enhancing the endowment of Lasell College, the profits of the Lasell Village venture will provide start-up funds for the development of this Institute.

Not surprisingly, area residents interested in Lasell Village reflect the trend toward an active lifestyle, based on the comprehensive survey of individuals on our mailing list. Of the 223 responses from potential Lasell Village residents, nearly 75 percent hold a bachelor's degree and a third have at least one graduate degree. Nationally, the average age of those entering a continuing care retirement community is between 78 and 80; the average age of those interested in our project is 71. More than 90 percent of the survey respondents are on no other waiting list and cited the Village's educational program as important to them.

Prospective residents are not only younger in age but also in spirit. They are excited about the prospect of cultivating new interests, working with our students if they wish — and in some cases even teaching courses. In return, our students will have unique opportunities for "connected learning" and internships as we develop gerontology-focused programs in travel, food service, business, and the allied health fields. The potential is vast. Lasell looks forward to the opportunities ahead.

Thomas E.J. de Witt, President

ACADEMIC Update

Center for Women in Public Service Wins Community Service Grant

MASSACHUSETTS GOVERNOR WILLIAM WELD RECENTLY ANNOUNCED THE SELECTION of Lasell's Center for Women in Public Service as one of 23 recipients of the first set of federally funded national community service grants from the Massachusetts National and Community Service Commission. The grant of approximately $20,000 will help the Center to continue its long-term commitments to the four programs with which it currently works: the Even-Start Family Literacy Program, in Dorchester, Mass., Rosie's Shelter for Women, the Mother Caroline Academy tutoring program, and In the Best Interests of the Children, the volunteer pediatric AIDS organization with which the Center is cosponsoring Camp Colors, the family day camp for children with HIV/AIDS. ■

New Degree Programs to be Offered

THE BACCALAUREATE DEGREE OFFERING IN INTERDISCIPLINARY STUDIES WILL now include concentrations in Psychology and Sociology as well as the existing Social Sciences and Humanities. An associate's degree in Occupational Therapist Assistant will be offered in fall '95, with a bachelor's program in Occupational Therapy in planning for 1997. ■

Lasell Students Opt for Graduate School

SIX LASELL GRADUATES FROM the class of 1993 are furthering their education through graduate degree programs, according to Marie Smith, director of Lasell's Career Services.

Two Human Services majors, Paula Connelly and Tracey Provost, are pursuing graduate degrees in social work, at Boston University and Boston College, respectively. Marie Grandoit, a Hotel Administration major, is at the University of Massachusetts/Amherst, pursuing a master's degree in the field. Kai-An Hsiao, a Taiwanese student who graduated from Lasell with a degree in Business Administration, is currently attending Suffolk University in pursuit of an MBA. Two Lasell Early Childhood/Elementary Education program graduates are also enrolled in graduate school: Donna Wolff is attending Wheelock College where she is working toward a master's degree in Education Administration, and Jackie Monahan is enrolled at Brandeis University, pursuing a master's degree in Management of Human Services. ■

Lasell's Academic Dean Serves as State Coordinator

CATHY L. LIVINGSTON, PH.D., Lasell's academic dean, was recently elected state coordinator of the Massachusetts chapter of the American Council on Education - National Identification Program for Women in Higher Education (ACE/NIP).

"The organization fosters development of women's issues in higher education and also works to support and advance the careers of women in higher education," says Dr. Livingston. "Even though women make up the majority of professionals in higher education, their status as faculty members is notoriously and significantly lower than men. As in corporate society, women in education are rising to certain levels but finding it difficult to make it to key positions," she explains. "Lasell College is unusual because so many women at the College hold key positions."

According to Dr. Livingston, the Massachusetts ACE/NIP chapter will focus on "career development for women which seeks to find a balance between women's career choices and the competing aspects of their lives." ■

Assistant Dean of Students Michelle Lepore makes sure the freshman experience is a positive one through the course College 101.

College 101: Helping Freshmen Succeed in College

FRESHMAN YEAR. THE VERY PROCESS OF LEAVING HOME AND confronting challenges to the habits acquired from parents, peers, and childhood surroundings can be an unsettling experience. But when home is replaced by the rigors of college, with its new academic and social pressures, the change can be especially traumatic.

"We wanted to develop a positive way to respond to the issues and needs of students new to the college environment to make certain the experience is a good one," says Michelle Lepore, Lasell's assistant dean of students and a lecturer in English.

And so, under her guidance and watchful eye, "College 101: Making the Most of Your College Experience" was born at Lasell, designed jointly by faculty and staff.

In many ways, the once weekly first semester class serves as a microcosm of life at Lasell. "Through 'College 101' we emphasize the premium on participation that we set on this campus. The course provides a means by which we can effectively plug students into the systems on campus. It's exciting to see the entire Lasell community get involved in making every student count," says Lepore.

College 101 reflects the educational elements of a core curriculum, including critical thinking, written and oral communication, mathematics, ethical reasoning, library skills, and aesthetics. "We also work with students to help them identify their social and career goals and assist them in learning methods to evaluate their progress," says Lepore. Included are discussions on personal value systems, career interests, relationships and communication, and health decisions, including sexuality, drugs, and stress.

College 101 has been responsible for a freshman retention rate of 100 percent to second semester, a 10 percent increase from the overall freshman class retention rate. "Our statistical data show that the academic achievements of students in College 101 were higher than the academic achievements of the total pool of freshmen," says Lepore.

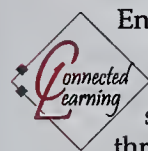

Based on the results, Michelle Lepore has reason to feel a sense of accomplishment. "This course is making a difference, not only for the students but for those of us who work with them." Next on her agenda is a focus on senior year issues through instructive, collaborative course development. "It makes sense," she says. "After four years of college, the jump into the real world poses as many — if not more — challenges as does the first year of college. We want our graduates to be ready!"

William Petersen, program director of Hotel and Travel/Tourism Administration at Lasell.

Program Keeps Pace with Change in Hospitality Industry

"WE'RE RUNNING A REAL BED AND BREAKFAST," says William Petersen, the program director of Hotel and Travel/Tourism Administration at Lasell.

Enthusiastic about the prospects for the program, Petersen extols the intensive new five-week practicum that will require Hotel Administration students to rotate through all functions at the College's quaint Victorian inn. Responsibilities include greeting guests as they arrive, inn maintenance, and analyzing daily occupancy rates to track and anticipate business volume.

Adaptability to change is what we strive to teach our students.

— William Petersen

"We are infusing the curriculum with elements that match the needs of our industry," says Petersen. "The bottom line is to produce graduates who are comfortable with all aspects of their work and who are well prepared to fulfill the expectations of the organizations that hire them."

On the baccalaureate level, the program's focus is on key areas of the industry. "Our program is one-third liberal arts, one-third general business, and one-third professional studies." Added professional courses include marketing, hospitality and tourism, and managing quality service. Incorporated into the course load, says Petersen, are the essential elements that drive successful management and leadership.

"As our industry re-engineers itself by restructuring and cutting out the middle manager, the new emphasis at Lasell has to be on cross-functional training."

In a proactive response to the new realities of the marketplace, Petersen has made certain that students at the college get a healthy dose of financial management, service philosophy and leadership issues, and a crash course on supervisory styles and techniques. "Human resources and race/ethnic relations are areas which are growing in our industry. And, increasingly, technology is the key. Financial management and reservations are all computer-connected. New areas of training now include security — which is getting increasingly sophisticated — as well as the emergence of gaming in the hospitality industry."

Petersen, who is currently working on his doctorate in education, knows the hospitality and travel industries firsthand. A Certified Rooms Division Executive (CRDE), he has spent the past 14 years in hotel and restaurant management positions in New York, New Hampshire, and Massachusetts.

"In our business, advancement comes from learning the corporate culture and finding the best way to utilize your skills. Ours is an exciting, dynamic, and multi-disciplinary field. It's one marked by constant change," says Petersen. "Adaptability to that change is what we strive to teach our students."

Fashion Program Graduates Honored

TWO STUDENTS IN LASELL'S FASHION MERCHANDISING PROGRAM WERE HONORED DURING THE annual seniors' awards dinner on the evening of May 14, 1994. Each award is made on the basis of academic performance, dedication to the fashion industry, and the expectation that the recipients will enjoy successful careers within the industry.

Nicole L. Positano, who was in the associate degree program, was presented with the Manuel Sheinfeld Award. Presenting the award was Chester F. Sidell, chief executive officer and founder of KGR Manufacturing in Lawrence, Massachusetts, who also was a speaker at a Fashion Retail Career Fair (see story on page A/1).

Shauneen A. DiCarlo, a senior in the bachelor's degree program, was the recipient of the Neiman Marcus Fashion Merchandising Award. DiCarlo accepted her award from Christina Lizotte, employment manager at Neiman Marcus.

education while I had the chance," she says proudly.

Lasell's expanded PACT program will mean more than the opportunity to earn a four-year degree for participants like Gentles. While remaining small, and preserving the emphasis on individual support and education, the program will allow an additional four or five women and their children to be added to the initial four who are accommodated with on-campus housing and child day care. The College is raising funds privately to provide for the expansion of the program to the bachelor-degree level and to cover the costs for additional housing and day care.

"This is a model program that enables us to change generational cycles," says Kate Taylor, MSW, a social worker who is charged with the supervision of the PACT program and its participants. "Women who grow up welfare-dependent are likely to remain welfare-dependent and have children who grow up welfare-dependent. It is a hard cycle to break because there is no chance for upward mobility. But at Lasell, we are managing to make a difference," says Taylor.

"Through PACT, Lasell has created a new culture for these women. The focus is squarely on providing an alternative to life bereft of the opportunities that education can provide."

NETWORK OF KNOWLEDGE AT ONE'S FINGERTIPS

Computers Hold the Key to Library Research

WITH A ZEAL FOR COMPUTER linkages that expand the resources of libraries individually and collectively, Director Allyson Gray is championing a computer revolution in Lasell's Brennan Library by making the traditional, often tedious methods of information retrieval as simple as a keystroke on a computer keyboard.

Gray is also the newly elected president of the Minuteman Library Network, a computer-linked consortium of 29 public and academic libraries whose collective on-line catalog includes more than three million items in diverse formats, from books to audiovisual materials. Thanks to computer networking, all of these are now at the beck and call of every Lasell student and faculty member.

Gone are the days of roaming through miles of book stacks and fingerling through countless card catalogs in search of a particular title. Today, with more information available than ever before, the expectations about what libraries should supply — and how quickly — are greater than ever," Gray explains. "The result is that libraries have had to move aggressively into computer technology."

Allyson Gray points to an island of three computers at the center of the library's main floor. "The card catalogs used to be there. In the old days

Brennan Library Director Allyson Gray serves as the knowledgeable tour guide for Lasell students and faculty along the burgeoning high-tech information highway.

— and that was as recently as six years ago — document delivery meant manually searching through the cards and then foraging through stacks to locate and retrieve the volume being sought. Today all it takes is a keystroke or two on the computer to tell you what books we have at our disposal, not only in this library but in the 28 others to which we are linked."

The Minuteman Library Network was created in June 1983 as an automated library system designed to promote library resource sharing throughout the region. Because of the network, a library like Brennan with some 60,000 volumes in its collection, can offer its users the resources of all member libraries which, in the case of Minuteman, means nearly 700,000 in titles.

Computers allow a small college library
like ours to be competitive in ways we never could be in the past.

this one," Gray maintains. "Computer hardware and software are an expensive but necessary investment. Training of personnel to ensure the optimal usage of the equipment is another element that must be factored into the computer equation," Gray explains. But the benefits are clear and the results are increasingly obvious.

"Computers allow a small college library like ours to be competitive in ways we never could be in the past. We can support new programs like Exercise Physiology and reintroduce old ones, like Nursing, by developing a strong core collection and by relying on our computer network to fill in the gaps. Brennan Library can support its associate and bachelor degree programs because of the changing face of technology.

"Our challenge is to find the balance between the exciting, always changing face of technology and the extraordinary and enduring value of the printed word," says Gray. ■

SOFTBALL TEAM WINS CONFERENCE TITLE

By winning the Southern New England Athletic Conference title, Lasell's softball team has added new luster to the athletics program. "Lasell's participation in the conference of small regional colleges provides students with the chance for post-season play and recognition for individual achievements," says Kristy Walter, the College's athletic director.

The softball team saw its 5-9 record of 1993 soar to an impressive 10-0 in 1994, a standing that netted the team a huge trophy and the title as Southern New England Athletic Conference champions. ■

BUSINESS ADMINISTRATION MAJORS PUT THEORY INTO PRACTICE

Students Test Marketing Skills Before Corporate Executives

By Jennifer Potterton '94

EIGHT LASELL BUSINESS ADMINISTRATION majors had the opportunity to test the theory and concepts learned in the classroom by presenting an imaginary new product to key business executives from the region.

In the exercise, which is a graduation requirement for all Business Administration students, participating executives create a business situation in which the students take on the role of product marketing managers and demonstrate their communication and problem-solving skills.

"The objective is to allow students to experience a situation they will find in the real world, and to respond to it based on the theory they have learned in the classroom," says Todd Leach, director of the Lasell's Business Management/Marketing, Accounting programs."

The assignment was to develop a marketing strategy for a new donut product.

The participating executives were Tom Rose, a consultant with Situation Management, Andrea McKenna, director of advertising for Dunkin' Donuts, and Robert Huntington, director of brand management, Dunkin' Donuts and a member of Lasell's Board of Overseers. The presentation took place in the Van Winkle Room of Lasell's Wolfe Hall, a learning space designed to simulate a corporate boardroom.

"The executives stay in character throughout the scenario," says Professor Leach. "The goal is to make the experience as real for the students as possible, providing them with insight into the various aspects that go into the development of ideas in a corporate setting.

"The role playing experience allows our students to step up to the corporate firing line and take a shot at turning classroom theory into practice." ■

(Jennifer Potterton '94 graduated in May with a bachelor's degree in Business Administration. She was one of the participants in the role-playing exercise.)

Lasell College Today is published and distributed free of charge to its alumnae, students, and friends.

Attending from the class of 1954 were Mary Patricia Wilson Kane, Nancy Atwood Cook, Carol Rofer Hofmann, and Judy Messier Howard.

"Whatever happened to...?" Looking over Lamp photos were '54ers Marlene Haake Brainard, Anna-Mae George Barney, Judy Stone Grabar, Anne Kempel Green, and Corinne Coyle Lydem.

The College staff even got into the act: Mary Tiernan, director of alumnae affairs, Susan Scichilone '88, director of support services for student services, Michelle Forget White '89, a resident director in Gardner House, Kathy Uner '83, director of gift planning, and Catherine Hunter-Gould, director of annual giving.

Members of the class of 1989 celebrating their 5th Reunion were Debra Brown, Christine St. Andre, Rachel Cormier, Michelle Forget White, and Barbara Post.

Who's that behind the Foster Grants in the conga line? Would you believe Reunion co-chair Kathy Morgan Lucey '67 and June Mange Carew '44?

Georgia Fortunato Pasqualone and Sue Maxwell Wright, from the class of 1969, at Nostalgia Night.

Does Your Class Year End in a "0" or a "5?"

Mark your calendar today for Reunion 1995, to be held June 2-4, 1995. The Reunion committee already has begun plans for the festivities, so don't be left out! Watch your mail this fall for information.

Class Notes

THE CONTENTS OF CLASS NOTES IS BASED ON MATERIAL SUBMITTED to Lasell College's Alumnae Office. Due to the large number of submissions, Lasell is unable to verify the factual content of each entry and is not responsible for erroneous material.

The Class Notes appearing in this issue were received by May 31, 1994. Information obtained after this date will be held for a future issue.

Please send your news to your Class Secretary or to the Alumnae Office at 1844 Commonwealth Avenue, Newton, MA 02166. We regret we cannot return photographs unless accompanied by a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

'21

Helen Beede had a grand time at the Lasell Alumnae luncheon meetings in Sarasota and St. Petersburg, Florida, this past winter, and is grateful to Bili Baxter Perkins '36 for providing her transportation.

'23

Florence Boehmcke Edmondson is enjoying retirement in Hilton Head, South Carolina, and hoping to make it to Reunion '98.

'24

Edith Hadley McLean is living in Leawood, Kansas, with her daughter. She has four grandsons and seven great-grandchildren who live close by.

Lucile Norris Cornish's daughter has written us that her mother has been suffering from Alzheimer's Disease for the past eight years. She lives in Sarasota, and her daughter comes frequently from Pennsylvania to visit her there.

Carolyn Vicary Krider is looking forward to the arrival of her third great-grandchild this summer.

'26

Dorothy Aseltine Wadsworth
7 Cabot Street
Winchester, MA 01890

Doris Schumaker Walthers lives in Largo, Florida, and is quite a trooper despite several unfortunate falls, as well as heart problems and osteoporosis.

Classmates Dorothy Schumaker and Edith Jensen White have been very faithful keeping Doris up to date with newsworthy items and comic relief.

Sincere condolences to Helen Duncan Devereux, who recently lost her husband, Leroy, to cancer.

'27

Eugenie McEdwards Bunting is still in her own home, and is active in her Women's Club.

'28

Phoebe Dotten Low keeps busy as a volunteer in North Conway, New Hampshire, and travels now and then. She was off to Hawaii this spring, and last year visited New Zealand with a group which included Virginia Wolfe Perkins '44.

Kathryn Forgey lives in Hawaiian Village Mobile Home Park in Bradenton, Florida.

'29

Alice Pratt Brown
193 Crest Road
Middlebury, CT 06762

Although Annette Harvey Jensen still has her drivers' license, she does not tackle major highways and could not attend Reunion this year; she sends best wishes to all her classmates.

Ruth Van Allen Wells and her husband have been married for 64 years. She has written three books, the most recent being Hostessing for 22 at Valley Forge.

Barbara Wilson Steele lost her husband in 1992, but still lives in their home in West Hartford, Connecticut. Barbara's children, five grandchildren, and four great-grandchildren keep her busy.

'31

Marjorie Magune Curtis enjoyed a large and wonderful family reunion last fall. Church and altar work, and visits from her children keep Marjorie happy and busy.

◀ On a recent visit to the Lasell campus Helen Louis Griffin '21 visited the Yamawaki Art & Cultural Center.

'32

Julia Case
33 Raymond Road
Nottingham, NH 03290

'33

Ruth Stafford Clark
31 Fairview Street
Simsbury, CT 06070

Our sincere condolences to Shirley Gould Chesebro, whose husband, Alan, passed away in July 1994.

Ruth Stafford Clark's daughter was married in September 1993.

'34

Mabelle Hickcox Camp
166 Middlebury Road
Watertown, CT 06795

Carol Morehouse Jones
108 Brynwood Drive
Easton, PA 18042

Kathleen Atkin Torcom considers herself the "bionic old lady," with two new hips and no pain!

Sister George Chrysostom, M.S.B.T. (aka Mary Elizabeth Barker), is the Director of Liturgy and organist for her community at their Motherhouse in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania. She serves on the Board of Managers for Pennsylvania Bible Society, and as Co-Director of "CREDO" (Computer Religious Education Data Office).

Ada May Bartlett Degree and her husband, Bob, live in Rocky Hill, Connecticut. They spend June and September on Cape Cod with her sister, and October usually finds them in his home state of Vermont, where they had lived for a few years after their marriage.

Even though her activities are limited by her need for 24-hour oxygen, Emily Cleaves Bone continues to play bridge frequently.

Roberta Davis Massey had two hip replacement surgeries in January, as a leg bone fractured after the first.

Alice Floyd Rice is a serious gardener in the summertime at her home in Manchester-by-the-Sea, Massachusetts.

Her son gives lectures about their garden, which is open to visitors and garden tours.

In 1990, Helen Gibbs Dodd happily found unexpected romance entering her life again! She remarried that year, and she and her husband spend winters in Florida and summers in Danvers, Massachusetts. They also visit her husband's place in New Hampshire.

Mabelle Hickcox Camp and her husband experienced a dreadful head-on automobile accident, through no fault of theirs, and now dislike traveling on busy highways. They keep busy with church work, and volunteer at their local library and historical society.

Marjorie Jones Joslyn acted as chairman of her 60th Reunion Committee, and was assisted by Mabelle Hickcox Camp, Bettina Potter Jeffrey, Virginia Leahy Berwick, and Carol Morehouse Jones. Marjorie stays busy with bridge, flower arranging, a jazzercise class, the Women's Club and garden club. She has seven grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

Nina Keppler Dusenbury has moved to a retirement community in Needham, Massachusetts. A member of the Wellesley Women's Club and the D.A.R., Nina enjoys playing bridge and happy times spent with four grandchildren.

Congratulations to Celia Kinsley Percival and her husband, who celebrated their 55th wedding anniversary in August. They visit their children in Arkansas, Pennsylvania, and Florida whenever they can.

Isabel LaCrosse Fior, who was an executive secretary at Time Inc., lives in New York City. She continues work at the Craft Students League. She and Celia Foss keep in touch at Christmastime.

Florence Lebrecht Rourke and her husband retired from Stamford, Connecticut to Carefree, Arizona, where she is active in her church altar guild and volunteers at the local library and museum. She is a member of an archeology club, and travels to see her daughter in France.

Margaret McKeon Barry retired in 1986 and is loving it! Over the years she had worked for the Department of Justice, as a third grade teacher, and as a medical secretary.

▲ 1929: Alice Pratt Brown and Marjorie Schaller Schoonmaker

◀ President de Witt presented a Heritage Society certificate to Estelle Jenney '25 during a recent visit to campus.

▲ 1934: Celia Kinsley Percival and Marjorie Jones Joslyn

▲ 1939: Marjorie Dietz Jacobs, Helen Forsberg Powers, Jeanne Daniels Wheeler, Ruth Weymouth, Jean Michael Petersen, Florence MacDonald Howe, Louisa Clark Harrington, Barbara Small Walsh

Helen Pierce Watkins is a volunteer at the USO at San Francisco International Airport, as well as at a thrift shop, and an historical museum.

Reunion 1995

Barbara Iris Johnson
19 Emmons Road
P. O. Box 257
Monument Beach, MA 02553

Our sincere condolences to Jane "Fannie" Brackley Starbird, whose husband, Edward, passed away in April.

Congratulations to Katharine Peck Dietler and her husband, who celebrated their 55th wedding anniversary last October.

'36

Phyllis Gurn Rodgers
80 Top Hill Road
Saunderstown, RI 02874

Belated congratulations to Ruth Upham Petremont and her husband, Gordon, who celebrated their Golden Wedding Anniversary in October 1993, with a two-week trip to Hawaii.

We send our deepest sympathies to Audrey Smith Henderson, on the recent death of her husband, Frederick. We hope she is feeling better and recovering from the stroke she suffered in April.

'37

Louise "Tap" Tardivel Higgins
3150 NE 48th Court, #314
Lighthouse Point, FL 33064

Augusta Williamson Hopkins and her husband, George, are happily ensconced in their new lifestyle at East Hill Woods in Southbury, Connecticut.

'38

Arlene Wishart Sylvester
81 Woodland Road
Auburndale, MA 02166

Our deepest sympathy to Elizabeth Leland Kibbe, whose husband, Gordon, passed away suddenly in December 1993, and to Lois Hein Cooper, whose husband, Herbert, passed away in March.

Best wishes for a speedy and full recovery to Caprice Gardiner Aque, who is recuperating at home following several surgeries.

'39

Louisa Clark Harrington
399 Lexington Street
Waltham, MA 02154

Jean Aljoe Buurman teaches English as a second language and helps children with remedial reading. She and her husband, Clarence, are involved in the Rotary Youth Exchange program, and, over the years, have hosted more than 80 students and young adults from around the world. They have ten grandchildren, and celebrated their 50th anniversary last December.

Congratulations to Romena Bowden Johnson and her husband, Ed, on the celebration of their 50th wedding anniversary last September. Romena markets framed Scherenschmitte pictures.

Jeanne Daniels Wheeler writes that since the last Reunion, their house in Hendersonville, North Carolina burned, and her husband, Red, has recovered from prostate cancer surgery. Due to these factors, the couple moved back to their old home town, Rensselaer, New York.

Louisa Clark Harrington has lived in the same house in Waltham, Massachusetts, since 1937. She enjoys gardening and antiques. She volunteers at a clothing exchange at her church (where she sings in the choir), and at the Waltham Boys and Girls Club and Chapel Hill Chauncy Hall School.

Marie Dunston Murray has raised three sons. She worked as bookkeeper at a church, and owned and managed a health store for fifteen years in North Carolina, before retiring and moving to Staunton, Virginia.

Congratulations to Helen Forsberg Powers and her husband, George, who celebrated their Golden Wedding Anniversary in March, 1993. Their four daughters, including Lee Carlson, a Lasell trustee, arranged a celebration for them. Each February, Helen visits her sister Norma Forsberg Burman '40 in Georgia.

Congratulations to Julia Keegan Fuller and her husband, David, who celebrated their Golden Wedding Anniversary in October 1993. They have a motor home and for the past ten years have traveled from December to April covering 45 states.

Janice Marr Demer is enjoying life at Leisure World in Silver Spring, Maryland. She and her husband spend summers in the Poconos and winters in Florida. They enjoy traveling and golf, and visiting with their children and grandchildren.

Phyllis McCormick Farmer lives in Chapel Hill, North Carolina. Her two grandchildren are there also, attending the University of North Carolina.

Cora Pratt Adams works a full eight-hour day as an independent travel counselor in Chicago, Illinois. Twice widowed, Cora has two children and six grandchildren.

Shirley Robins Lipkin spends her winters in Pompano Beach, Florida, where she and her sister, Elaine Robins Albert '42, have condos in the same building. Shirley lost her husband, Allan, two years ago, and has two children.

Jane Robinson Williams and her husband, Bob, have two children and two grandchildren. They are retired from teaching in Connecticut and have moved to North Carolina to play golf.

'40

Reunion 1995

Priscilla Sleeper Sterling
246 Ocean Palm Drive
Flagler Beach, FL 32136-4113

Florence Evans McLaughlin and her husband continue their world travels. They met when both were serving as sergeants in the United States Marine Corps in Washington, D.C. Their travel plans for this year included visits to Austria and Hungary.

'41

Virginia DeNyse
900 Palmer Road, #3H
Bronxville, NY 10708

Geraldine Bixby Averill sends greetings and blessings to her classmates. She and her husband, Wes, are in good health and keep busy doing volunteer work and trying to make their world a better place in which to live.

We were happy to learn that Sue Cairol Peck has returned to her home in Fairfield, Connecticut, after a long hospitalization.

Jay Jahn Warren lives in Honolulu, Hawaii, and was expecting her eldest son and his family from Oregon to spend Christmas with her there. She is the grandmother of five boys and three girls.

Louise Lorion DeVries, of Seal Beach, California, has recently welcomed two new great-grandchildren.

Marie MacGregor Woodward and her husband divide their time between Bradenton, Florida, and Maggie Valley, North Carolina.

Marjorie Ulrich McLaughlin and her husband enjoyed a Caribbean cruise last February, and visited her sister, Dorothea Ulrich Eagleson '40 on their way home.

'42

Dorothy Mosher Stone
P. O. Box 483
Mashpee, MA 02649

Barbara Colleston Moore sent a note from Whispering Pines, North Carolina: "We're still flying!" Wishing you blue skies, Barbara!

Marjorie Ray Blackett of Sarasota, Florida, missed the alumnae luncheon this past winter, as she was enjoying a birdwatching trip to Belize in February.

'43

Mary Ledbetter Bastean
12525 4th Street, East
Treasure Island, FL 33706

Kathleen Sharp Montgomery lives in Miami, Florida. She and her husband have two daughters and five grandchildren, and enjoy traveling the United States and Canada in their RV.

'44

Jean Campbell
84 Laurel Street
Fairhaven, MA 02719

As our class poet laureate Dorothy Tobin Staffier writes, "Our 50th Reunion is over. We came, we saw, we loved it! The perfect weather, Evening at Pops, campus tour and other well-planned events kept us hopping. Pre-luncheon pictures and procession of classes to the jazzy upbeat of a live Dixieland band had us swaying and jitter-bugging (a hardy few!) as '44 paraded by wearing banners and sailor hats.

A superb dinner was given at the President's house by the gracious de Witt's at which time, Dr. de Witt announced generous Heritage Society bequests by Carolyn Hart Hill and Jean Campbell — hats off to both!

Whether listening or dancing to 40s tunes at Winslow's Nostalgia Night or catch-up chats and pictures of family, travel, or business, it was apparent that we've come a long way, Babes. We did it all and had it all — just like Bogey and Bacall!

Amid the chaos of World War II, we found a safe haven at Lasell. We may have forgotten most of the subject matter — but never the teachers. We may have forgotten the words to Rubenstein's "Romance," but never the candlelight procession on Cap and Gown night."

A copy of Dorothy's wonderful poem Times and Places, which unfortunately cannot be printed due to space constraints, will be mailed to all 50th anniversary classmates sometime this fall.

Jane Beard Maxson and her husband, John, live in an adult community in Jamesburg, New Jersey.

Kellogg, Alice Crosby Martin, Vivian Snow Ohlhorst, Joan Mills Barry, Claire McCreery Simmons, Priscilla Lincoln Laird, Carolyn Hill Hart, Jean Campbell, Dorothy Baum Roberson, Barbara Bresette Southwick

She served as a co-op director for six years and continues to be involved in community government affairs.

Priscilla Breck Mitchell lives in Marietta, Georgia, and enjoys golf, antiquing, and her three grandsons. She works with Atlanta Alzheimers Association. While on a European tour, she met Jan Payson Dinan '39, and they were delighted to discover they had both attended Lasell!

Gloria Boyd Major-Brown lost her husband in January, 1993. She has established a memorial for him at Princeton, and regretted missing the 50th Reunion, as the Princeton activities were the same weekend. She has started a widow's support group and recent plans included travel to Indonesia, Bali, and Singapore, returning via Hawaii where her California daughter would join her.

Anne Calder Dick of Tewksbury, Massachusetts, is a retired librarian who loves to read. If she had known how great retirement was going to be she would have done it sooner!

Gloria Clifford Gifford and her husband celebrated their 49th wedding anniversary last September. They have seven grandchildren and everyone comes home for the holidays and special events, reason enough for keeping their big house in Rockland, Maine.

Katherine Cogswell Darnton has a bed and breakfast on the Mississippi River in Clarksville, Missouri, a National Register Historic Town. For the past 14 years Katie has run The Americana Shop, a Folkcraft business handling baskets, chairs, and other crafts. We were very sorry to learn that this business was severely damaged in the Mississippi flood last summer. The Darnton's both were planning hip replacements recently, and we hope they are recovering well. Katie regretted not being able to join classmates at Reunion, and sent special love and greetings to the whole class, especially the "Briggs Bunch."

Dorothy Fuchs Magee actively participates in her community as a literacy volunteer in Naples, Florida.

Rachael Kellogg of Newington, Connecticut, is involved with the VNA Friendly Visitor Program and works as a volunteer with an animal shelter.

Joe Leroy Bramm, of Huntsville, Alabama, has been active in her State Republican Party, serving as its Vice President for six years — the only woman in that role. She has been a delegate to State and National Republican Conventions over the years, and has traveled the world.

Claire McCreery Simmons is a retired nursery school teacher. She is a volunteer at the Red Cross and a docent at Putnam Cottage in Greenwich, Connecticut, as well as a member of the DAR. Claire and her husband enjoy sailing, and have six grandchildren.

Joan Mills Barry writes from Morristown, New Jersey, that she volunteers in her local hospital once a week and plays golf as often as possible. She is office manager three days each week in a dentist's office, and that work plus five grandchildren help keep her young at heart!

Dorothy Nickerson Tehan of Springfield, Massachusetts, is administrative assistant to a national bed and breakfast network. Jean O'Brien Heavey keeps well in spite of having had M.S. for years. She would love to find out how and where Althea Taylor Goldberg '45 is.

Anna Olesen McCurtain and her husband, Curt, share what they feel are the best of two worlds: living six months each year in Nokomis, Florida, and the other six in Portland, Maine.

Rosalie Paddison Wentworth of Hendersonville, North Carolina, is a water colorist.

Priscilla Perley Kerans wrote "hope that none of you will be offended when I say that I prefer to remember all of you as you were fifty years ago and I'd like you to remember me that way. God bless."

Elfreda Reck Dubin has been a docent for a number of years at the Worcester, Massachusetts, Art Museum, and is very involved with calligraphy.

Ann Scott Lauer and her husband, Bill, are now settled permanently in Florida, and are active in square dancing, golf, and as hospital volunteers in the emergency room. They retired early, and have enjoyed trips overseas and traveled via motor home in the U.S.

Harriet Sears Sheaff is retired from Filene's. She and her husband have five children and a dozen grandchildren!

Alice Sears Laycock is retired from Sears Roebuck & Co. She and her husband, Ellis, live in Wollaston, Massachusetts. They are the parents of five and grandparents of fifteen!

Faith Taylor Maloney has a spot in an antique mall as a hobby, and she attends many auctions. Her two children live nearby, and, lucky her, husband Bill does the cooking!

Imogene Williams Genewich has five children. She is a retired medical secretary and enjoys traveling.

Last November Virginia Wolfe Perkins traveled to New Zealand with another Lasell alum, Phoebe Dotten Low '28. She also traveled to Labrador last year.

Edith Ann Avery Todd lives in Flintridge, California, and she and her husband visit Boston often. The Todds have taken many great trips in the past few years, including visits to Asia, Europe, and a cruise of the Greek Isles.

Raemary Chase Duryea's recent travels have included visits to Burma, Thailand, China and Africa. She has four grandchildren, and plays golf frequently.

Two of Barbara Nelson McCartney's children live in her town of Bradford, New Hampshire, and another is in Houston, Texas.

Nancy Peterson Strain enjoyed a fabulous fall 1993, cruise of the Rhine River, including visits to Zurich, Heidelberg, Cologne, Amsterdam and London. She's pleased they wintered at their lake house in Texas — they missed ALL the New York City snows of this record-breaking season!

Esther Cornwell Osborne, after serving as an active board member for 18 years, has recently been named chairman of the Melrose-Wakefield Hospital Board in Massachusetts. Her commitment to the hospital spans three decades.

Lois Kenyon Brush is enjoying two recent purchases — her Dodge Spirit and a raccoon trotter.

Lois Seidel Newell writes from Greenville, South Carolina, that both she and her husband are now retired, and living a quiet but good life. Their children and five grandchildren keep them young, and "Kit" hears from the Hawthorne girls every Christmas!

Our condolences to Priscilla Stone Hird on the death of her sister Dorothy Stone Faino '41. For the past two summers, Priscilla has gotten together with Priscilla Ames Ruggles, Barbara Bates Perkins, and Jane Bradley Anderson.

Jane Alford Young is a member and officer of the American Association of University Women. Also, she is an active docent at the local Heritage House in La Mirada, California.

Ann Ashley Sanderson and her husband have two children and five grandchildren. They live in Appleton, Wisconsin, but spend winters in Florida and summers in Dan County, Wisconsin. Ann is president of a newcomer group and a member of the hospital auxiliary.

Katherine Babcock Hansen is a guide at both the Philadelphia Museum of Art and Independence Hall. She also volunteers at Contact Philadelphia, a crisis hot line.

Joyce Brandt Francis of Clifton Park, New Jersey, has been retired for two years. She has spent March of the last eight years in Barbados and likes to travel — most recently with the Lasell travel group on a D-Day tour. A widow, she has a daughter and two grandsons.

Joan DeGelleke Shrewsbury retired in 1991 after thirty years as an office manager in a pediatric practice. She is very active in the civic life of Guilford, Connecticut. Joan is a breast cancer survivor and values her family and old friends more than ever.

For twenty years, Ann Dewar Condon has been involved with the breeding and showing of dogs, particularly golden retrievers.

She is an obedience instructor specializing in puppy kindergarten, and does rehabilitation of abused and rescued goldens. Ann's four-year-old grandson will be attending Lasell's early school program in the fall.

Violet Drulie Dhimos works part time as a librarian, and is active in the Lexington, Massachusetts, Historical Society and Field and Garden Club.

Ann Fletcher Simonds lives in Sarasota, Florida, and Laconia, New Hampshire. She remarried in March 1993, and since then she and her husband have traveled to Florida, California, and the Bahamas. Her husband, Fil, was from New Hampshire, and Ann's four children went to school with his four daughters.

June Gray Taylor has worked for 24 years at Potpourri Collection, a mail order firm that publishes catalogues many will recognize: "The Stitchery," "Potpourri," "Expressions," and "Counted Cross Stitch." She and her husband keep their boat in Wolfeboro, New Hampshire, and enjoy boating on Lake Winnepesaukee.

Shirley Greenhalgh Fadley is enjoying golf — living on a golf course — and retirement in Palm Desert, California.

Helen Gurski Bulat travels from Wilbraham, Massachusetts, to her winter home in Boca Raton, Florida, for six months each year.

Natalie Hall Campbell lives in Spartanburg, South Carolina, where her special interests are hospice and Mobile Meals. She has two grandchildren who live in Colorado.

Elizabeth Harrington Logan works as an administrative support coordinator with CIGNA in the Boston office. She has two children.

Nancy Hayden Drooff had two dreams come true this past year. Her first grandchild, a baby boy, was born, and she and her husband built and moved into their new home in Plymouth, Massachusetts.

Elizabeth Honywill Horgan and her husband rent a booth at Tobacco Shed Antiques in Glastonbury, Connecticut. They have also done some outdoor antique shows in Wethersfield and Glastonbury, and enjoy spending time at their 100-acre farm in the Catskill Mountains in New York.

Martha Hurd Davenport's youngest son and his wife are adopting five children — brothers and sisters ranging in age from 11 to 17. This addition will boost the total number of grandchildren to 13. She serves on the Board of Directors for Franklin County, Massachusetts, Red Cross Chapter and has been their secretary for over 22 years.

Elsa Koehler Edwards of Kitty Hawk, North Carolina, recently started her own wildflower seed business, Beach Blossoms, selling varieties that will grow in the harsh environment of the Outer Banks. Elsa continues designing wreaths, and wall hangings for a local shop and serves on the board of the civic association.

Eva Laitinen Stromski keeps busy by cooking for friends, and keeps the needles flying while sewing, quilting and cross-stitching. She has traveled all over the world, thanks to a pilot son and Elderhostel.

Patricia Lane Harlow and her husband, David, travel from Hackettstown, New Jersey, to spend several months each year at their home in Tucson, Arizona.

Nancy Lawson Donahue suggests that alums "come back and see the wonderful changes and exciting future for Lasell and women's education, and then dig deep and support the institution." Nancy is an east/west commuter, spending the first two weeks of each month in Lowell, Massachusetts, and the last two in Portland, Oregon. Her husband is president of NIKE Inc., and their family (11 children) is still in the east.

Dorothy Lindestrand Magnuson has been retired for almost three years, after having worked for 17 years in the medical records department of several Boston area hospitals. She now keeps busy with volunteer work in her local hospital and is very active as publicity chairman for Habitat for Humanity in her Camden, Maine, area. She has four children, and four granddaughters.

Carolyn Loewe Jones is an administrative assistant at Merion Publications in King of Prussia, Pennsylvania.

Irene Lupien Murphy and her husband welcomed their newest grandson in July, 1993. Irene hopes to retire in two years to enjoy all her grandchildren full time!

Nancy Macdonough Jennings and her husband live in Jackson, Michigan, and spend about five months each year at their condo on Marco Island, Florida. They have four children, and Nancy enjoys playing lots of tennis and bridge.

Diane Palady Barry and her husband, Jim, started their Christmas tree operation, Highfields Christmas Tree Farm, in Grafton, Massachusetts, 20 years ago. Their youngest son is actively involved in the family business.

Grace Palmetto Severino has recently retired after 23 years as a public relations administrator at Syracuse University. She looks forward to having time to travel with her husband — with a trip to Italy this past spring and another to the south of France in the fall.

Julia Parker Haas lives in Gilford, New Hampshire, and spends winters in Bradenton, Florida. She and her husband, Dick, have three children and six grandchildren.

Patricia Penry Van Hoesen is the accountant for the family's shipping business. They are affiliated with one office in Taiwan and three on mainland China, and are very busy now that the Asian market is becoming so important.

Eugenia Piper Nelson has raised four children and now has three grandchildren. She works in real estate in Bradford, Pennsylvania, where her husband is the mayor.

Kathryn Poore Hamel is serving as president of her 200-member ladies' golf association. She is working on 13 families' genealogies, and enjoys golf, tennis and travel.

Paulina Quilty Connolly is the mother of six children and grandmother of five. She has been a Commissioner for the Arts in Connecticut for ten years, and spends four months each year at her cottage in Hyannisport, Massachusetts, where she "feeds her spirit."

Priscilla Randall Hurter and her husband, Dick, are living at a retirement community in Lancaster, Pennsylvania.

Carolyn Rock Brisson has been a widow for six years. She is retired and enjoys the Florida weather for beaching and playing golf.

In March, the Lasell community enjoyed an exhibit of paintings by Jean Sargent Lee's daughter, Sally. Jean is a regular volunteer for the American Cancer Society 800 number and hopes to start a North Shore alumnae group in Massachusetts.

Shirley Simonton Bancroft has been a guide at Winterthur Museum in Wilmington, Delaware, for 13 years. She and her husband have a condo at Sea Pines in Hilton Head, South Carolina.

Meredith Sisson Wannie is active on the board of Opera New England of Cape Cod as well as doing part-time sales work at Jordan Marsh.

Alice Smales Young and her husband divide their year between Seekonk, Massachusetts, and Holmes Beach, Florida. They have four children and eight grandchildren.

Emogene Starrett Anderson and her retired husband, Chet, have a home in Cohasset, Massachusetts, and spend three winter months in Vero Beach, Florida, and some time at Eastman, a recreation community in New Hampshire.

Mary "Vicky" Stone Leary retired from the Agoura Hills, California, City Council in 1991, after serving for nine years, including two terms as mayor. Since then she has been traveling back and forth across the country. She remains active in her community and was recently appointed to a committee for the Ventura Freeway Corridor Areawide Plan. Vicky serves as a docent at the Ronald Reagan Presidential Library and recently received the "Penland Award" from the Augoura Chamber of Commerce in recognition of her many civic contributions.

Joan Sullivan Bragdon is a potter and owner of MerrieWood Pottery in Ellsworth, Maine.

Jane Wadhams Hazen has three daughters and two grandchildren. She is a handbell ringer in her church bell choir and volunteers at nursing homes.

Marilyn Weeden Davidson and her husband have sold their home in Bennington, Vermont, and moved to Etowah, North Carolina. They spent a good part of 1993 "on the road" in their RV, traveling to Florida, California, Georgia, North Carolina, and back to Vermont to pack and move.

Joan Weiler Arnow, a member of the Lasell Board of Overseers, "would urge all classmates who have not seen Lasell in the past five years to make a visit. The campus looks wonderful, the new auditorium is a joy, and the general atmosphere is as wholesome as ever." Joan also serves on the board of Theatre for a New Audience, Roundabout Theatre, National Council for Jewish Culture, and previously served as Chairman of the Central Westchester UJA, as president of Interns For Peace, as a board member of Israel Philharmonic Orchestra, Mid-Westchester YMHA/YWHA, People for The American Way, Yaldenu Day Care Center, Rechov Sumsum (Sesame Street), and as president of Radius Institute. Joan has four children and eight grandchildren.

Katherine White Lawrence is an active volunteer at a soup kitchen and has volunteered for the Bruce Roberts Fund, George Bush, and John McKernan. She enjoys her grandchildren, and her travels include Europe, Hawaii, Bermuda, and the United States.

Marion Wilson Kennedy retired from an accounting position in 1988 and then began her real estate career.

Joan Wolfe Wickham works as a sales associate for Pelican Bay Real Estate in Daytona Beach, Florida. She is a multimillion dollar producer, specializing in the country club community where she and her husband live.

Virginia Woodman Cordes of Glen Mills, Pennsylvania, has two children, and a grandson and granddaughter. She enjoys genealogy and quilting.

▲ Congratulations to Jacqueline Paulding Hauser '50 who exhibited in the New England Flower Show in Boston this past spring and won a third place ribbon.

Janet Foley has lived in Manhattan for 28 years and volunteers each week at Marble Collegiate Church.

Carmen Santo Grimshaw would love to see more of her classmates, so if anyone visits Lake Forest, Florida, please call. Last year, Carmen enjoyed seeing Joan Antun Rednor and her husband.

Jacquelyn Temperley Jennings escaped the rigors of last winter in New England, spending time in Florida and the Bahamas. Because of their intergenerational need, she believes that long-term health care and prescription drugs should be included in a national health care program, and met with Hillary Rodham Clinton in April to express her concerns.

Sabra Turner Stockdale has owned and operated The Word Christian Bookstore in West Dennis on Cape Cod for 14 years. She taught English in Hungary in August, 1992, and served with Volunteers for Israel on an army base in Israel for three weeks last fall. Sabra recently visited Warsaw, and will travel on a missionary outreach in September to Prague and Lithuania.

ALUMNA PROFILE

Marion C. Williams '83

What can you do with a liberal arts education? Just ask Marion Williams '83 of Newton.

She says, "My parents sent me to Lasell because they wanted me to have a 'marketable skill.' I liked the College because I was able to take liberal arts classes that provided exposure to a variety of areas. In fact, some of my favorite courses were English classes with Ken Matheson and George Lane."

After leaving Lasell with a degree qualifying her as an administrative assistant, Marion worked in advertising at BayBank and later as a marketing coordinator for The Boston Five, where she was responsible for producing direct mail pieces and organizing branch seminars for the public.

As part of the overall banking situation in the northeast, she was laid off in the early 1990s. Marion says that even being unemployed was a learning experience. "I pulled from my Lasell resources and came up with a 'plan of action' for my future."

Now assistant public relations manager for SilverPlatter Information, Inc., a publisher of information on compact disc, Marion says she calls on her Lasell skills daily. "I left Lasell with a sense of empowerment. I think attending a women's college leaves young women feeling confident and self-assured."

Robin Tavekelian received a Christmas card from Kittiya Sarasin Amatayakul. Kitty and her husband are the very happy parents of twin baby girls!
